Good afternoon,

Your name was submitted by Attorney General Wayne Stenehjem to serve as his designee on the Screening Committee for the position of Commissioner, North Dakota Department of Trust Lands. The Commissioner position has been posted with a closing date of November 8, 2021. The posting along with a list of the Screening Committee members are attached.

As directed by the Board of University and School Lands, Governor Burgum's office will coordinate the search process, and scheduling and facilitation of Screening Committee meetings. The Governor has asked me to serve as his designee on the Screening Committee.

We would like to schedule our first Screening Committee meeting on November 12, 2021 at 9:00 AM. Please let me know if the meeting date/time works for you.

Thank you for your willingness to serve on the Screening Committee.

Please let me know if you have questions.

Statement of Attorney General Wayne Stenehjem in response to today's Supreme Court decisions on vaccine mandates

I am pleased that the Supreme Court, by a 6-3 vote, held that the federal Occupational Safety & Health Administration lacked constitutional authority under its "workplace safety" regulations to impose a vaccine mandate that would have affected more than 80 million employees across the country.

As the Supreme Court majority opinion stated, "Although Congress has indisputably given OSHA the power to regulate occupational dangers, it has not given that agency the power to regulate public health more broadly."

I can appreciate the distinction the Supreme Court made between the OSHA mandate for workers generally and the CMS mandates for medical workers, but I continue to have serious concerns about the effect the ruling will have on retaining health care workers, many of whom may elect to simply quit rather than get the vaccine, seriously exacerbating staffing issues, especially in our rural medical facilities.

As I have emphasized from the beginning, the lawsuits were not about whether people should get vaccinated, they were about opposing federal overreach.

Two other lawsuits continue, one against the federal mandate for federal contractors, and the other for employees, volunteers, and children with Head Start programs.

General Stenehjem,

On July 22, I filed Mississippi's brief in the Dobbs case, probably the most consequential case in the last 50 years regarding abortion policy and jurisprudence.

I asked the Supreme Court to overrule Roe v. Wade and Planned Parenthood v. Casey, to return abortion policymaking to the elected branches of government, and to put an end to the special rules they've created for deciding abortion cases – and abortion cases alone.

As I said in my op-ed in USA Today, it is time to release states from the outdated legal precedents of Roe and Casey.

It is time to allow the people to engage in real debate about legitimate interests, like women's health and the sanctity and dignity of life.

As Mississippi's Attorney General, I will defend our laws and Constitution.

I will defend your voice expressed through your laws.
I will protect your rights guaranteed by the Constitution.
I will fight to preserve the rule of law.

Of course, there are those who are horrified that I would make these arguments and I have received some emails that are too vile and profane to repeat here.

But I have also received many messages from across the country thanking me for taking this stand and offering their prayers and support.

And, I believe that we can drown out those negative messages with the prayers and support of people like you who believe in rule of law, in life, and in the Constitution.

Please consider sharing your support through a generous donation and help us as we head to the Supreme Court to ask them to return decision-making about abortion policy to the people.

Sincerely,

Lynn Fitch

Dear AIFL Delegation Alumnus,

We are writing to request your assistance in helping ensure our 50 Year Anniversary celebration will be a success and appropriately represent your state. We would like to invite your Governor to attend our New York City Gala at the Plaza Hotel as our guest and whether or not they can attend to share with us in advance a proclamation, letter or official greetings that we can include in our journal and read excerpts live to the audience. This year, we are honored to bestow both George W. Bush, the 43rd President of the United States, and Reuven Rivlin, the 10th President of the State of Israel, with AIFL's Partners for Democracy Awards. We will also recognize both NASDAQ and TASE (Tel Aviv Stock Exchange), two leading stock exchanges on which many Israeli companies are listed, with the Kenneth J. Bialkin Leadership Awards at the Gala. We will also recognize the co-founders of AIFL, Vice President Hubert Humphrey, Jr., and Congressman Herbert Tenzer with the Herbert Tenzer Lifetime Achievement Award, to be accepted by The Honorable Hubert H. "Skip" Humphrey III and Tenzer family members.

We would be grateful if you could directly contact the Governor's office to assist us in advancing this request. Please share with us any questions, recommendations or responses you may receive to gzohar@aifl.org.

Many thanks in advance for your efforts.

Greetings Wayne,

Wednesday night Chairman Schafer and I were in Minot to complete our fourth-regional "Coffee with the Chairman" initiative. There were approximately 45 people who attended this informal q/a gathering from the northwest region.

After the meeting, Amber Vibeto (district 3 chair) discussed the topic of masking, covid vax etc. with me. Amber also serves as president of the ND Conservative Advocates group. Amber asked me if I would share the information she provided (below) with you. My understanding is she is inquiring if you have considered an advisory opinion on this topic. I understand if you'd rather not get into this, but I thought I would at least pass it along.

Hi Corby,

Thank you, again, for making the trip to Minot with Perrie last night. I think it was a great opportunity for communication and bridge-building. Per our conversation last night, we would love to see Attorney General Stenjehem come out with an advisory opinion and position statement specific to vaccine mandates. Many North Dakotans are facing the impossible decision to keep their job or to make a medical decision they don't want to make, and I think a strong, clarifying statement from our Attorney General would be very helpful. I am including a link to TX Attorney General Paxton's statement on vaccine mandates as a reference and example.

Thank you for agreeing to reach out to the Attorney General regarding this important issue!

Sincerely,

Amber Vibeto

NDGOP Reports “Productive Discussions” from December State Committee Meeting

Pans Few “Protestors” Who “Disenfranchised” Districts

BISMARCK — Today, Perrie Schafer, Chairman of the North Dakota Republican Party (“NDGOP”) released the following statement in response to the conclusion of its December State Committee Meeting:

“I want to thank the hardworking members of the NDGOP State Committee who took the time before the holidays to form an easy quorum and vote to continue the past tradition of holding a Republican endorsing convention in the spring; add a few additional requirements for candidates seeking the NDGOP’s endorsement at its convention, and continue to consider party resolutions through a modified process,” said Schafer.

He continued, “We were disappointed that a very small minority of protestors decided to leave and disenfranchise the Republicans in those districts. We will, of course, continue our efforts to reach out to them and work through differences in the spirit of unity that we are called to as Republicans here in North Dakota.”

An Announcement from Attorney General, Wayne Stenehjem:

My dear North Dakotans:

For the last 21 years, it has been my honor to work with the dedicated people in the office of Attorney General on behalf of the citizens of North Dakota. I have had to make many difficult decisions in that time, but never one as difficult as this one.

After visiting with Beth and others, I have decided that this term will be my last and I will not seek a 7th term in 2022. The decision has been a hard one because I have truly enjoyed my time in this office, and that is in large part because I have worked with some of the most dedicated and loyal employees anyone could ask for.

The citizens of North Dakota have seen fit to elect me to this important office six times and it has been an honor beyond measure. I hope North Dakotans will respect my work, my steadfast support of the US and State Constitutions, the rule of law, and efforts to keep North Dakota the best and safest place to live and work.

The end of my current term will mark 22 years as North Dakota's 29th Attorney General, the longest for an Attorney General in the state's history, in fact, as long as my three predecessors added together. In addition to that, of course, are the 24 years I spent as a member of the North Dakota House and Senate.

I ran for public office because of my love for North Dakota. And my love of our state has only grown during that time.

When you walk into the front of my office in the Capitol you will see a composite photograph of all the people who have served North Dakota as Attorney General since statehood. After my photo there are seven blank spaces. Those spots are reserved for the people who will come after me. I know that whoever is fortunate enough to have his or her photo included after mine will inherit a talented, dedicated group of employees who come to work every day with the goal of keeping North Dakota the very best place.

My current term runs through the end of 2022, and we still have lots of time to continue the important work we have in the year ahead.

I wish you all the best of the Christmas Season, and look forward to continuing our important work in 2022!

This e-mail and my response invited a conversation that still needs to take place.

The last few election cycles have demonstrated that our country is in an ideological war. The two coasts represent different values than middle America.

Rather than working together with our elected officials to defend those middle America values, we are under attack. Why would that be?

One of the attachments to this e-mail offers several points for further conversation that might provide insight. I recognize and respect that there may be a diversity of opinions on these points.

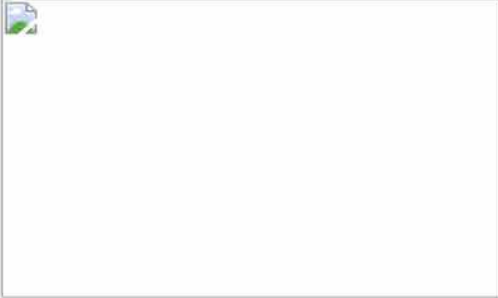

The other attachment is a copy and paste of all the nay votes on agency budgets taken from the daily journals. The final page of that attachment lists all who voted nay on more than 10 of the 49 budgets. This is not a few bills cherry picked to advance an agenda. These are all the budget bills. Some people on this list have different reasons for voting nay than others. Some are very engaged in the budget conversations. Others vote no without conversation.

Abdication of the responsibility we have to fund state government may be a Libertarian position, but is certainly not a conservative position.

I have hesitated to send this e-mail for several months because of the respect that I have for the Institution you and I have the privilege to serve, the people with whom we serve, and the Republic we love. Ultimately, we have a responsibility to defend all three. It is in that spirit that I offer these comments.

Let' talk.

Rick:

Thank you for this conciliatory e-mail. I have to say that I have no problem with your Bastiats holding a different perspective than the rest of us. I have a serious problem with you advancing your agenda at everyone else's expense.

I am a Republican and I am a conservative. I know what that means. Being conservative is not about voting no. Being conservative is about voting yes on the right priorities. Voting no on all the budget bills might be fiscally conservative, but only in one sense. It is a complete abdication of the responsibility that we have to fund government. Without even a conversation on the budget, you make yourselves irrelevant to the budget process. Calling yourselves conservative and everyone else a RINO, only adds to the cynicism that exists against the Legislature.

I have struggled with how to initiate a conversation on these matters. I would like to take your e-mail as an invitation to a smaller discussion. I would be happy to visit with you and others in your caucus of your choosing. The conversation should include leadership in both chambers and others of their choosing.

I think I would bring perspective that you may not have considered previously. I considered a public discussion, but that would result in no winners. Someone close to me said, "Dad, you agree with them 90% of the time." That is true. We should be able to work around the other 10%.

There is one point that needs to be a part of this larger discussion. The Senate Majority Leader has had his reputation dragged through the mud. Eight Republicans put their name on the bill that came later to be known as a Red Flag bill. On the surface it appeared to address a serious issue. There was due process in the bill. It was vulnerable only in the sense that it was subject to abuse, just as domestic violence orders are subject to abuse. You and your caucus never offered any other solutions and, in fact, opposed all the Behavioral Health initiatives passed in the session.

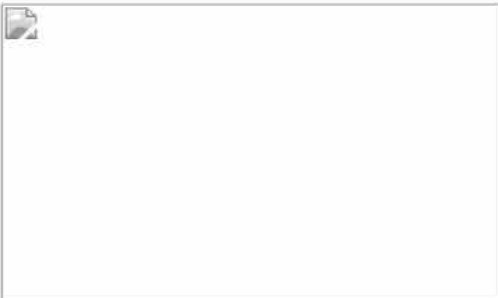

It seems to me that your caucus has tried to use the Red Flag bill to lead the public to believe that the Second Amendment is under threat by this Legislative body and that your caucus stands in the way of any compromise of it. Reconciliation of your caucus with other Republicans demands that you reconsider that position.

The Senate Majority leader is the hardest working and largest contributing member to the Legislative process.

Other issues might be best addressed in a smaller discussion.

Thanks again for the conciliatory e-mail. Please accept my response in the same spirit.

Subject: Let's be united

Dear fellow Republicans,

As we look to the upcoming session, I wanted to relay a few thoughts I have.

I have previously written social media posts about the so-called division in our party. My analogy has been that we are like a family. There will always be family squabbling. There may be a crazy uncle, a weird cousin, and a stubborn grandma, but they are still family.

We all want to do our job as legislators the best we can. For me, the best thing for both our state, and for our party has been to fight fervently for less spending, less taxing, and less regulation. I'm fully aware that in that fight, I have rubbed some of you the wrong way, and of course, that is true conversely as well. Nevertheless, I have no regrets, and will continue to fight for what I think is best.

Here's the rub; when times are good, and there aren't external threats to us, it's ok to focus on intra-caucus conflicts (family squabbling) to do what we think is best. In fact, it's probably necessary to churn out the best product. But when times are less good, or if there are external threats, we must do what families and communities do: we must unite to fend off a common threat.

I believe we face a few common threats.

One is our counterpart, the Democrat party, seems to be complicit with a far-left movement that is pushing untenable policies. They aim to transform or crush American history, American morale, and American culture and society. Although it seems far away from North Dakota, I believe we will need to be united to ensure they do not succeed in even getting a foot in the door.

If Biden wins, we will need to be united against his (their) inevitable hits on the economy.

If Trump wins (which I believe he will), there will likely be chaos. We will need to be united to deal with such chaos without succumbing to actions which restrict liberty.

Another threat is from our executive branch (I know I may lose a few of you here). We have been accustomed to spending $10,000-$30,000 for a legislative campaign (with a few $100,000+ outliers). Governor Burgum has come in with his millions to change the course of Republican primaries to fit his vision. In my opinion this is a gross overstep. I believe what he did in getting rid of long-time legislator and Appropriations Chairman Rep. Delzer is unforgivable.

He really does believe he is the CEO of ND, and we are low-level management that must do what he wants. I won't belabor the point, but we need to be united against Governor Burgum in rolling over us, for whatever is on his pet project list.

I look forward to working WITH each of you this upcoming session.

Have a great fall, and let's hope society doesn't collapse in November.

-Rick Becker

On December 6, the Court issued the following statement:

The Court will hear all oral arguments scheduled for the January and February sessions in the Courtroom. Courtroom access will be limited to the Justices, essential Court personnel, counsel in the scheduled cases, and journalists with full-time press credentials issued by the Supreme Court. Out of concern for the health and safety of the public and Supreme Court employees, the Courtroom sessions will not be open to the public. The Court will continue to closely monitor public health guidance in determining plans.

The Court will provide a live audio feed of the January and February oral arguments. A link to the live audio feed will be available on the homepage of the Court's website.

The Court building remains open for official business only and closed to the public until further notice.

10 am: Shurtleff v. City of Boston, 20-1800: the justices will return to the issue of religion in public places. The question arises in a lawsuit filed by a Christian group after the city of Boston denied the group's request to raise its flag – bearing a Latin cross – on a city hall flag pole. The city, the group contends, routinely allows other groups to use the flag poles, for everything from the Turkish flag to celebrate “Boston pride” and the observance of Juneteenth. The group went to court, arguing that the denial of its application violates the First Amendment. Both the district court and the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 1st Circuit ruled for the city.

SCOTUS NEWS

Justices will hear arguments on Jan. 7 in challenges to Biden vaccine policies

With COVID-19 cases surging across the country, the Supreme Court fast-tracked two disputes over the Biden administration's efforts to expand vaccinations. In an unusual move, the justices announced on Wednesday night that they will hear oral arguments on Jan. 7 on two federal policies: a vaccine-or-test mandate for workers at large employers, and a vaccine mandate for health care workers at facilities that receive federal funding.

The cases came to the court last week on an emergency basis, and the formal question in both disputes is whether the government should be allowed to enforce the policies while litigation challenging them continues. But the justices' views on whether to grant emergency relief will likely be influenced by their views on the merits of the underlying challenges themselves.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration issued the vaccine-or-test mandate on Nov. 5. It requires all employers with more than 100 employees to mandate that those employees be either fully vaccinated against COVID-19 or be tested weekly and wear masks at work. Several challenges to the rule were filed around the country, by (among others) business groups, religious groups, and Republican-led states, arguing that the mandate exceeds OSHA's authority. The U.S. Court of Appeals for the 5th Circuit temporarily put the mandate on hold in November, but the challenges were consolidated in the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 6th Circuit, which reinstated the mandate last week.

The challengers went quickly to the Supreme Court, filing over a dozen separate requests asking the justices to block the 6th Circuit's ruling. The justices on Wednesday night set two of those requests for oral argument – one filed by a group of trade associations and the other by a group of states, led by Ohio – on a highly expedited basis. The 6th Circuit's ruling reviving the mandate will remain in force until the Supreme Court acts on the challengers' request, although OSHA has indicated that it will not issue citations for failure to comply with the rule until Jan. 10 at the earliest.

The Biden administration also came to the court last week, asking the justices to allow it to temporarily enforce a rule issued by the Department of Health and Human Services that requires all health care workers at facilities that participate in the Medicare and Medicaid programs to be fully vaccinated against COVID-19 unless they are eligible for a medical or religious exemption. Lower-court rulings blocked the administration from enforcing the vaccine mandate in approximately half of the states. The justices will hear argument on whether those rulings should remain in place.

Shortly after receiving the emergency requests last week, the court set a deadline of Dec. 30 for responses in both disputes. The decision on Wednesday to hear oral argument on the emergency requests came as somewhat of a surprise: It seemed more likely that the court would dispose of the requests with a brief order, as it normally does on the so-called "shadow docket." Instead, and perhaps in response to criticism of the increased use of the shadow docket to litigate major policy disputes, the justices fast-tracked the cases for oral argument, as they have already done twice this year when fielding requests for emergency relief in the battle over Texas' controversial abortion law and a request by a Texas inmate to have his pastor touch him and pray out loud during his execution.

Dear AIFL Delegation Alumnus,

We are writing to request your assistance in helping ensure our 50 Year Anniversary celebration will be a success and appropriately represent your state. We would like to invite your Governor to attend our New York City Gala at the Plaza Hotel as our guest and whether or not they can attend to share with us in advance a proclamation, letter or official greetings that we can include in our journal and read excerpts live to the audience. This year, we are honored to bestow both George W. Bush, the 43rd President of the United States, and Reuven Rivlin, the 10th President of the State of Israel, with AIFL's Partners for Democracy Awards. We will also recognize both NASDAQ and TASE (Tel Aviv Stock Exchange), two leading stock exchanges on which many Israeli companies are listed, with the Kenneth J. Bialkin Leadership Awards at the Gala. We will also recognize the co-founders of AIFL, Vice President Hubert Humphrey, Jr., and Congressman Herbert Tenzer with the Herbert Tenzer Lifetime Achievement Award, to be accepted by The Honorable Hubert H. "Skip" Humphrey III and Tenzer family members.

We would be grateful if you could directly contact the Governor's office to assist us in advancing this request. Please share with us any questions, recommendations or responses you may receive to gzohar@aifl.org.

Many thanks in advance for your efforts.

Here are a few thoughts for your possible comments. I will print a copy for you and bring it with me in the event you are able to use some of these comments. In addition, I am copying Liz so that you can work with her on edits or changes. In addition, Liz could have NAAG staff print for you a final or revised copy.

My flight leaves at 5:30 a.m. but if you want me to rework this or make other changes, I can work on it tomorrow night or Monday night. In the meantime, I have to prepare for my panel on Enhanced Information Sharing and Public-Private Partnerships. By Wednesday, I hope to know a little something about this topic...

I included some acknowledgements for NAAG staff because, during your years of leadership in NAAG for consumer protection, I think one of the many things that my colleagues liked and appreciated about you, in addition to your sense of humor, was your appreciation for and recognition of the work they do in consumer protection. I know that Faisal and Todd, and their co-workers, put a tremendous amount of effort in putting this seminar together.

Thank you.

Reply To Snippet	<lavinia.iancu@und.edu> Good morning, We have meet last year in October, when we had the chance to discuss the UND Forensic Science Program and visit the laboratory. Since our last discussion I made numerous changes to the curriculum and the laboratory to advance the program in the student's best interest. As such, the curriculum changes represent the stone base for the future Forensic Science Education Programs Accreditation Commission (FEPAC) accreditation, and currently the curriculum complies with the employment standards regulated by the forensic science laboratories. Both curriculum and courses suffered changes in this regard. Furthermore, I am trying my best to equip the laboratory with major equipment much needed for the forensic science investigations, as I am looking to increase the students' hands-on activities / experience. This semester I am teaching two FS courses, both with a lab component, and I was able to identify the need of motivating the students. In both courses, half of the students have a clear idea of the path they want to follow in their career and half are concerned about their future and lack confidence. Student motivation and morale are just as important to me as the changes made to the program and the lab. In this respect, I would be honored if you would accept my invitation to be a guest speaker for these two courses. I know how important time is, as such, a 10-minute discussion would be more than enough. I don't think anything will boost their morale more than a speech of encouragement from a great leader, such as you. If this is not possible, I totally understand. Thank you for taking the time to read this long email. Good morning,

We have meet last year in October, when we had the chance to discuss the UND Forensic Science Program and visit the laboratory. Since our last discussion I made numerous changes to the curriculum and the laboratory to advance the program in the student's best interest.

As such, the curriculum changes represent the stone base for the future Forensic Science Education Programs Accreditation Commission (FEPAC) accreditation, and currently the curriculum complies with the employment standards regulated by the forensic science laboratories. Both curriculum and courses suffered changes in this regard.

Furthermore, I am trying my best to equip the laboratory with major equipment much needed for the forensic science investigations, as I am looking to increase the students' hands-on activities / experience.

This semester I am teaching two FS courses, both with a lab component, and I was able to identify the need of motivating the students. In both courses, half of the students have a clear idea of the path they want to follow in their career and half are concerned about their future and lack confidence.

Student motivation and morale are just as important to me as the changes made to the program and the lab. In this respect, I would be honored if you would accept my invitation to be a guest speaker for these two courses. I know how important time is, as such, a 10-minute discussion would be more than enough. I don't think anything will boost their morale more than a speech of encouragement from a great leader, such as you. If this is not possible, I totally understand. Thank you for taking the time to read this long email.

Best regards,
Lavinia

Good morning,

It has been a pleasure meeting you and your wife today. Thank you for your visit and interest in the Forensic Science Program.

Please find attached the FS 345 syllabus, for the Forensic Science course that I am currently teaching. I hope that this meeting will be the foundation of a future collaboration essential for the development of the Forensic Science Program and the training of students as future forensic experts.

Sincerely,
Lavinia

This should be my last request of you!

I believe I only had that one donation from RAGA last spring.

Let me know if you need anything or if we need to visit.

Subject: Year-End Campaign Finance Report

Statewide, Judicial, Legislative Candidates and Sitting Office Holders

You are receiving this email as a reminder that you have a Year-end Campaign Contribution Statement due. The statement covers the time frame from January 1, 2021 through December 31, 2021. The statement must be filed electronically and can be submitted anytime between January 1, 2022 and January 31, 2022. Any statement filed after January 31, 2022 will be assessed a late filing fee. The statement must be filed whether you received any contributions and/or made any expenditures during the reporting period.

There are two attachments that have come with this reminder. One is for Statewide and Judicial Candidates and the other is for legislative candidates. Please make sure you are reviewing the appropriate one.

Electronic submission of disclosure statements must be completed through the North Dakota Campaign Finance Online (ND CFO) system. Access to the online system is found at Vote.ND.Gov. Once there, click on the "Campaign Finance Disclosure" tab on the left-navigation or follow the instructions given to log in to the system by clicking Access North Dakota Campaign Finance Online.

For statewide candidates, the ND CFO system will prompt you through all questions that must be answered to file your statement; including reregistration for 2022. Please note that state law requires a filer to reregister each year whenever a balance exists in their campaign contribution account or will continue to hold office. Since state law requires you to disclose your beginning and ending balances for the year, you will be reregistered if an ending balance exists.

For legislative and judicial candidates, the ND CFO system will prompt you through all questions that must be answered to file your statement; including reregistration for 2022. Please note that state law requires a filer to reregister each year whenever a balance exists in their campaign contribution account or will continue to hold office. Since state law does not require you to disclose your beginning and ending balances for the year, you will be asked if an ending balance exists. Please make sure to reregister if you have a balance or continue to hold public office.

If you need additional help you can contact the Elections Unit of the Secretary of State at sselect@nd.gov, 701-328-4146, or 800-352-0867 Option 6.

Subject: FAIR Act Letter from Alabama

Colleagues,

Attached is a letter from Attorney General Marshall to Congress in opposition to the Forced Arbitration Injustice Repeal (FAIR) Act. The Act would amend federal law to prohibit any contract from requiring pre-dispute arbitration or precluding class-action litigation with regard to employment, consumer, antitrust, and civil rights disputes. The letter takes no position on whether or not this is good policy; rather, it argues that this decision should be left to the states. Notably, all 50 states have laws regulating arbitration.

The position taken in this letter has historically received bipartisan support in the AG community, as evidenced by the briefs referenced therein.

Please consider joining this effort. Sign-ons are due on August 4th, one week from today.

My best,

Katherine Green Robertson

Subject: A favor

Your cousin E.D.'s daughter, Rachel, is married to our favorite nephew in law, Mike Salvaris, an Australian entrepreneur. He reached out this morning to ask me if I would open a door for him with you. We adore Mike and his 2 kids and we are surrogate bonus grandparents. He is smart, hard working and enormous fun.

Mike's company, ELS Gaming LLC (t/as Luckii) operates an online historical racing platform www.luckii.com in Oregon. They are licensed as an Advance Deposit Wagering platform and have a multi-jurisdictional hub license issued by the Oregon Racing Commission. North Dakota also issues multi-jurisdictional licenses for ADW platforms. They are hoping the North Dakota Racing commission will be open to issuing a multi-jurisdictional license to them. Such a license could come with stipulations that our platform not be available to North Dakota residents - although at some point in the longer term we would love to explore making our platform available to North Dakota residents as well.

Mike and team are coming to Bismarck over the next few weeks, hoping you will meet with your in-law cousin once removed (I have no idea what I am talking about!).

Miss you. Planning on coming to Fargo this summer. Pls let us know if you come to NY or LA. Love g

Operation Bad Santa

Operation Bad Santa involved the use of online, undercover, and traditional investigative actions to locate individuals attempting to lure children to meet for sex or asking them to produce child pornography.

The operation led to the arrest of at least three individuals on charges related to the sexual exploitation or enticement of minors, with investigations ongoing that may result in additional arrests.

I would like to thank the Mississippi Bureau of Investigation, Hancock County Sheriff's Office, Harrison County Sheriff's Office, Jackson County Sheriff's Office, Biloxi Police Department, United States Department of Homeland Security, and the Federal Bureau of Investigation who assisted in the operation for their hard work last week. William Carey University, Tradition Campus, and its Criminal Justice Department, also provided invaluable support.

6 child predators sentenced

Child sexual exploitation is a serious statewide issue. This year, CyberTips have increased by 30 percent in Mississippi as child predators welcomed the opportunity to exploit children made more vulnerable by the pandemic.

I am grateful for my team of dedicated prosecutors and investigators and our partners statewide for their great work in securing the recent sentencing of six child predators across the State.

Together, we will continue to aggressively pursue the predators who seek to harm our precious children.

VIDEO: Mississippi crime victims Christmas tree dedication

The annual Christmas tree dedication for Mississippi's crime victims is a treasured event, and while I'm disheartened we were unable to gather as a larger group this year, I did not want this opportunity to pass without expressing my deepest admiration and respect for all Mississippians who are victims of crime.

My office is focused on helping victims recover from and overcome the lasting physical, emotional, and financial challenges victims have endured, and we will continue to be unwavering advocates for victims of crime across Mississippi.

May God be with you and your loved ones this holiday season!

Google's anticompetitive practices hurt consumers

Google's exclusionary practices not only lock out competition, which distorts the market and reduces innovation, but also the company's misrepresentations to consumers, particularly regarding their privacy, cause real harm to consumers.

I joined 10 states in a lawsuit to protect competition and innovation in our technology markets and to protect consumer privacy for all Mississippians.

Seeking to end Facebook's illegal monopoly

Facebook spent nearly a decade engaging in practices that diminish competition and exploit user privacy for profit.

I joined 47 attorneys general in filing a lawsuit to put an end to Facebook's monopolistic stronghold on the marketplace and ensure that Mississippians are protected from anticompetitive and deceptive business practices.

have a safe and blessed holiday season.

Challenging the Biden Vaccine Mandates

With every new bit of information, the Administration releases implementing its vaccine mandates, the requirements have become murkier and more confusing. As a result, many are complying simply out of fear of losing their job or their business, even when compliance goes against their religious beliefs, medical misgivings, or other perfectly valid reasons for choosing not to vaccinate or not to force others to vaccinate.

The bungled execution of these mandates has led to absurd applications, including;

- A small business, with a lower-tier government subcontract, may be subject to the federal contractor mandate, but the same business would otherwise be exempt from OSHA's Emergency Temporary Standard if it did not have the subcontract because it has less than 100 employees.
- A business with federal contracts may have some workplaces where employees can be tested weekly as an alternative to vaccination and other workplaces where employees must be vaccinated or terminated. (Though some agency guidance has broadly applied the federal contractor mandate to all employees even if those employees only tangentially co-located with the federal contract workplace making even this unclear.)
- An employee working remotely on a federal contract may have to vaccinate even if others in their home working for the same contractor but not on the federal contract do not have to be vaccinated.

I encourage people to get vaccinated, but ultimately the choice is theirs. The President shouldn't make it for them. Particularly right now, at the onset of the holiday season and in the midst of a supply chain crisis, the Biden Administration's overwhelming desire to check the box for 100% vaccination is the wrong approach. They are trampling on liberty, jeopardizing economic recovery, and unnecessarily creating uncertainty and fear for the American people at a time when we need hope that the pandemic can soon be behind us.

Success with Operation Sweet Tooth

In the week leading up to Halloween, my Cyber Crime division led an operation against online predators, Operation Sweet Tooth, in partnership with the Forrest County Sheriff's Office and with the assistance of the Smith County Sheriff's Office, Columbia Police Department, Picayune Police Department, United States Department of Homeland Security, United States Secret Service, Naval Criminal Investigative Service, and the Mississippi Bureau of Investigation.

The operation led to four arrests for the exploitation or enticement of minors, the execution of five search warrants, and multiple ongoing investigations, which may lead to additional arrests. We are committed to keeping Mississippi's children safe from those who would do them harm and rob them of their innocence.

Helping Victims Heal from Domestic Violence

October marked Domestic Violence Awareness Month. We can all help victims move forward with hope, dignity, and peace. We can all help them make the transition from victim to survivor. Whether you volunteer at a shelter, work in our courts or with law enforcement, or are the friend of a victim of violence, you can find a variety of resources on my website to help you help them.

Getting Help in the Fight Against Trafficking

Trafficking is a multi-billion-dollar international criminal enterprise, and it can regrettably be found in communities all across our great State. My Office is committed to shutting traffickers down in Mississippi and helping their victims recover without shame or blame, but this is going to take a statewide network of law enforcement officers who are trained in carrying out trafficking operations and providing support for those recovered. And our investigators are pleased to offer that training.

Subject: FAIR Act Letter from Alabama

Colleagues,

Attached is a letter from Attorney General Marshall to Congress in opposition to the Forced Arbitration Injustice Repeal (FAIR) Act. The Act would amend federal law to prohibit any contract from requiring pre-dispute arbitration or precluding class-action litigation with regard to employment, consumer, antitrust, and civil rights disputes. The letter takes no position on whether or not this is good policy; rather, it argues that this decision should be left to the states. Notably, all 50 states have laws regulating arbitration.

The position taken in this letter has historically received bipartisan support in the AG community, as evidenced by the briefs referenced therein.

Please consider joining this effort. Sign-ons are due on August 4th, one week from today.

My best,

Katherine Green Robertson

Dear colleagues – please see attached the most up-to-date version of the letter to POTUS re covid vaccine rules. We appreciate the feedback and have adopted several suggested grammatical edits and updated the citation for footnote 20 on page 6.

At this time the following 13 states have signed on: SC, AL, MT, SD, AK, MO, NE, FL, GA, OK, OH, WV, and LA.

Again the goal is to format for release tomorrow, so if you could let us know today or first thing tomorrow morning whether you would like to join, we appreciate it.

Thanks you as always.

Hello Wayne,

Hope you're well. Apropos of this previous exchange, I was wondering if you had a timeline for an announcement for 2022 yet?

Just checking in, thanks!

Thanks for asking, Rob. At this point I have not made a decision or an announcement about my plans for 2022.

I expect to make my decision by the end of November, though.

Take care,

Hello Wayne,

I am working on writing something up about the 2022 election cycle and wanted to ask if you planned to run for re-election this cycle?

Thanks!

Thank you for taking the time to visit with me.

I can hardly believe in 1981 I was in the 1st year of my one term as Attorney General. That year we did the initial set up of the Gaming Division of the Attorney General's office. Wayne as I recall was a member of the House of Representatives from Grand Forks. My how time flies!

Reply To Snippet	ROBERT WEFALD <BOBWEFALD@msn.com> Dear Wayne: Congratulations on your decision to not seek re-election to another four-year term as Attorney General. You have done a truly great job as AG, particularly in handling so many difficult issues that we as AGs have to deal with as they are presented. I remember one of the 1st calls I got when you took office. Sandy Tabor, your 1st Assistant AG, called and asked me about conflicts of interest, her concern being obvious given the boards and commissions on which they AG is a voting member. I remember saying to her, "Of course there is a conflict of interest." But I told her that's O.K. since the law and constitution placing the AG in all these positions act as a waiver. In fact, the law requires the AG to act and vote on these boards and commissions. I have not wanted to make any comment while you are in office. However, I think maybe the time is right to take the AG off of these boards and commissions. This would leave the AG in a hands-off position to give legal advice without any appearance of a conflict of interest. I bet the legislature would be interested, as would your fellow state officials who would love to take a seat in place of the AG. As you wrap up your term know this. I think, I know, you have done a simply outstanding job as Attorney General! My words to you are the highest words of praise a Naval officer can bestow; "Well Done, Well Done!" Sincerely, Bob

Argument Session Starting February 22, 2022

Monday, Feb. 21 Federal Holiday

Tuesday, Feb. 22

10 am: Ysleta del sur Pueblo v. Texas. 20-493: Whether a federal law that bars on tribal lands any gaming activities “prohibited by the laws of the State of Texas” bans any kind of gambling prohibited under state law, or whether it goes further and also prohibits any gaming that the state regulates.

11 am: Denezpi v. Texas, 20-7622: Whether a prosecution in the Court of Indian Offenses can trigger the Constitution’s double jeopardy clause.

Wednesday, Feb. 23

10 am: Arizona v. City and County of San Francisco, 20-1775: Whether states should be permitted to intervene in litigation and defend a federal regulation when the federal government declines to do so.

Monday, Feb. 28

10 am: West Virginia v. EPA, 20-1530 (consolidated with three other cases: North American Coal Corp. v. EPA, 20-1531; Westmoreland Mining Holdings v. EPA, 20-1778; and North Dakota v. EPA, 20-1780): Whether the Clean Air Act authorizes the EPA to issue significant rules that regulate greenhouse gases from power plants. The cases came to the justices from the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit. That court vacated both the Trump administration's decision to repeal the 2015 Clean Power Plan, which established guidelines for states to limit carbon dioxide emissions from power plants, and the Affordable Clean Energy Rule that the Trump administration issued in its place. The Biden administration urged the justices to stay out of the dispute, stressing that it intends to issue a new rule, but the court granted review in late October.

Tuesday, March 1

10 am: Ruan v. United States, 20-1410 (consolidated with Kahn v. United States, 21-5261): Whether a doctor who has the authority to prescribe controlled substances can be convicted for unlawful distribution of those drugs when he reasonably believed that his prescriptions fell within professional norms.

11 am: Marietta Memorial Hospital v. DaVita Inc., 20-1641: A dispute over the interpretation of the Medicare Secondary Payer Act, which bars health plans from considering whether an individual is eligible for Medicare benefits because they suffer from kidney failure and from providing different benefits to such individuals

Wednesday, March 2

10 am: Egbert v. Boule, 21-147: Whether the court's decision in Bivens v. Six Unknown Federal Narcotics Agents, allowing a private individual to sue a federal agent for violating his Fourth Amendment rights, extends to First Amendment retaliation claims and to Fourth Amendment claims involving immigration enforcement.

On December 6, the Court issued the following statement:

The Court will hear all oral arguments scheduled for the January and February sessions in the Courtroom. Courtroom access will be limited to the Justices, essential Court personnel, counsel in the scheduled cases, and journalists with full-time press credentials issued by the Supreme Court. Out of concern for the health and safety of the public and Supreme Court employees, the Courtroom sessions will not be open to the public. The Court will continue to closely monitor public health guidance in determining plans.

The Court will provide a live audio feed of the January and February oral arguments. A link to the live audio feed will be available on the homepage of the Court's website.

The Court building remains open for official business only and closed to the public until further notice.

The cases came to the justices from the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit. That court vacated both the Trump administration’s decision to repeal the 2015 Clean Power Plan, which established guidelines for states to limit carbon dioxide emissions from power plants, and the Affordable Clean Energy Rule that the Trump administration issued in its place. The Biden administration urged the justices to stay out of the dispute, stressing that it intends to issue a new rule, but the court granted review in late October.

Wayne,

Thanks for sharing this.

Bakken Energy addressed all of these issues either in its response letter to the CCCA (attached) or in the hearing last week.

1. Bakken Energy proposes to use 175 million cubic feet of natural gas per day to produce hydrogen. How will the product be transported to market? Is Bakken proposing to construct an ammonia pipeline? Where would it go and what is the timeline/likelihood for permitting? If not a pipeline, how will that volume of product be transported?
 - a. Hydrogen - we stated during the CSEA hearing that we are in conversation with multiple long-haul trucking companies interested in taking our hydrogen "at the plant gate." This means we expect these long-haul trucking companies will build the hydrogen transportation system to us.
 - b. Ammonia – the distribution for ammonia already exists. We don't need to do anything to reach the ammonia markets other than rely on what is already being done.

2. Basin Electric said it has been losing money at the synfuels plant due to low natural gas prices. But prices have increased significantly in recent months. Is the plant once again profitable producing syngas from coal? If the plant is profitable in the next three years of operation, how does it affect the plan to produce hydrogen?
 - a. As Basin Electric stated during the hearing, they have made the decision to sell this plant to the Bakken Energy/Mitsubishi partnership in the next 15 months. They have suffered losses the last three years. Bakken Energy stated its modeling expects losses through 2026. If natural gas prices are high, perhaps some money will be made, but the variability in this market is not sustainable over the long term. In short, the plans to convert the plant to hydrogen will not change because of the natural gas markets.

3. Federal grant guidelines generally require local support for a project, but Bakken Energy has not met with the CCCA membership to answer their questions. Why hasn't that meeting occurred?
 - a. We told the CCCA when they called us to request a meeting that we have plans for an all employee meeting at DGC that we have not been able to execute on. We reiterated that in the attached letter. We will meet with 3rd party groups after we have met with the employees to lay out specific plans.

4. It appears this project is heavily dependent on federal grants and loans from DOE. Will the parties, Bakken Energy and Mitsubishi (which is a $5.2 trillion company), proceed with the project if it fails to receive federal support?
 - a. We stated during the CSEA hearing that while we are pursuing federal loan guarantees and grants, our project is NOT dependent on securing these funds.

5. If the project depends on federal support that may or may not be received, is it premature for the State of North Dakota to make a financial commitment at this time? Should the decision of the Industrial Commission be postponed until there is more certainty about project funding?
 - a. See our answer immediately above.

Good morning Wayne –

Sorry this is a long email, but please read it in its entirety. The Coal Conversion Counties Association is a subset of the Western Dakota Energy Association. The CCCA represents cities, counties and school districts in the three coal-producing counties. Its members are concerned about the pending proposal of Bakken Energy and Mitsubishi to convert the Great Plains Synfuels plant to produce blue hydrogen from natural gas. Attached is a letter you previously received stating some of those concerns.

CCCA members suspect that because the project received the early endorsement of Governor Burgum, important questions have not been addressed and the project has not been thoroughly vetted. Earlier this week, the application of Bakken Energy for a grant and loan to support the project was endorsed by the Clean Sustainable Energy Authority, and will be coming before the Industrial Commission next week. After listening to the orchestrated presentation of Bakken Energy, and the ensuing discussion with the CSEA board, our coal county members still have many unanswered questions. Please consider these as you ponder a decision at next week's Industrial Commission meeting:

1. Bakken Energy proposes to use 175 million cubic feet of natural gas per day to produce hydrogen. How will the product be transported to market? Is Bakken proposing to construct an ammonia pipeline? Where would it go and what is the timeline/likelihood for permitting? If not a pipeline, how will that volume of product be transported?
2. Basin Electric said it has been losing money at the synfuels plant due to low natural gas prices. But prices have increased significantly in recent months. Is the plant once again profitable producing syngas from coal? If the plant is profitable in the next three years of operation, how does it affect the plan to produce hydrogen?
3. Federal grant guidelines generally require local support for a project, but Bakken Energy has not met with the CCCA membership to answer their questions. Why hasn't that meeting occurred?
4. It appears this project is heavily dependent on federal grants and loans from DOE. Will the parties, Bakken Energy and Mitsubishi (which is a $5.2 trillion company), proceed with the project if it fails to receive federal support?
5. If the project depends on federal support that may or may not be received, is it premature for the State of North Dakota to make a financial commitment at this time? Should the decision of the Industrial Commission be postponed until there is more certainty about project funding?

Thank you for your consideration.

Statement of Attorney General Wayne Stenehjem in response to today's Supreme Court decisions on vaccine mandates

I am pleased that the Supreme Court, by a 6-3 vote, held that the federal Occupational Safety & Health Administration lacked constitutional authority under its "workplace safety" regulations to impose a vaccine mandate that would have affected more than 80 million employees across the country.

As the Supreme Court majority opinion stated, "Although Congress has indisputably given OSHA the power to regulate occupational dangers, it has not given that agency the power to regulate public health more broadly."

I can appreciate the distinction the Supreme Court made between the OSHA mandate for workers generally and the CMS mandates for medical workers, but I continue to have serious concerns about the effect the ruling will have on retaining health care workers, many of whom may elect to simply quit rather than get the vaccine, seriously exacerbating staffing issues, especially in our rural medical facilities.

As I have emphasized from the beginning, the lawsuits were not about whether people should get vaccinated, they were about opposing federal overreach.

Two other lawsuits continue, one against the federal mandate for federal contractors, and the other for employees, volunteers, and children with Head Start programs.

Mr. Giese,

As a result of recent changes made during the last legislative session requiring hospitals to utilize the ambulance service district the state deems closest and most appropriate, the Mountrail County Medical Center (MCMC) will utilize the services of the Stanley Ambulance Service for inter-facility transfers when appropriate as determined by the transferring and receiving Providers, beginning August 1.

For inter facility transfers, MCMC will continue to use Mountrail County Dispatch, per policy, to summon the Stanley Ambulance Service when appropriate as determined by the transferring and receiving Providers. With respect to the needs of the patient, the following should be understood:

- a. If the ground ambulance crew does not contact MCMC within 5 minutes of requesting a transfer through dispatch, this will be deemed a refusal of transport by said ambulance and cause to request alternate means of appropriate transfer.
- b. All inter-facility transfers from MCMC are considered emergent transfers unless explicitly outlined by the referring Provider. Any delay of report to the bedside, attempt by ground ambulance crew member to delay transfer to a later time/date or otherwise condition acceptance of transport will be deemed a refusal of transport.
- c. All inter-facility transfers from MCMC are considered ALS transfers unless explicitly outlined by the referring Provider. Any attempt by a ground ambulance crew member to modify the requested level of care will be deemed a refusal of transport.
- d. The patient sex, age, medical condition, expected care/interventions, and destination may be provided to the ambulance over the phone. All other information will be provided at a bedside report. Equivocal responses will be treated as a refusal of transport.
 - i. Insurance information, face sheets, or demographics outside of the required documentation for transfer with regard to EMTALA will be provided to ambulance personnel after an inter-facility transfer is complete and a patient care report is sent to MCMC.

MCMC has a patient care first approach to medical care. As an additional request in the interest of patient care and spirit of teamwork, MCMC is requesting that SAS personnel communicate to MCMC via state radio, or the recorded EMS line at (701) 628-0367 - upon dispatch for a 911 call, as well as at the earliest possible time after patient contact to appraise MCMC staff of potential in-bound patients. MCMC certainly understands that patient care comes first, but we would like to strive for in-bound report greater than 5 minutes prior to arrival.

Should you have any additional questions, please feel free to reach out directly to me at any time via this email address, or the hospital main number at (701) 628-2424.

Your cousin E.D.'s daughter, Rachel, is married to our favorite nephew in law, Mike Salvaris, an Australian entrepreneur. He reached out this morning to ask me if I would open a door for him with you. We adore Mike and his 2 kids and we are surrogate bonus grandparents. He is smart, hard working and enormous fun.

Mike's company, ELS Gaming LLC (t/as Luckii) operates an online historical racing platform www.luckii.com in Oregon. They are licensed as an Advance Deposit Wagering platform and have a multi-jurisdictional hub license issued by the Oregon Racing Commission. North Dakota also issues multi-jurisdictional licenses for ADW platforms. They are hoping the North Dakota Racing commission will be open to issuing a multi-jurisdictional license to them. Such a license could come with stipulations that our platform not be available to North Dakota residents - although at some point in the longer term we would love to explore making our platform available to North Dakota residents as well.

Mike and team are coming to Bismarck over the next few weeks, hoping you will meet with your in-law cousin once removed (I have no idea what I am talking about!).

Miss you. Planning on coming to Fargo this summer. Pls let us know if you come to NY or LA. Love g

Dear Scott,

Attached is a draft of the Complaint. We still need to incorporate the points from our experts, Col. Mills (USA Ret.) and Dr. Doug Frank, PhD.

All the best,

Kurt

My dear North Dakotans:

For the last 21 years it has been my honor to work with the dedicated people in the office of Attorney General on behalf of the citizens of North Dakota. I have had to make many difficult decisions in that time, but never one as difficult as this one.

After visiting with Beth and others, I have decided that this term will be my last and I will not seek a 7th term in 2022. The decision has been a hard one because I have truly enjoyed my time in this office, and that is in large part because I have worked with some of the most dedicated and loyal employees anyone could ask for.

The citizens of North Dakota have seen fit to elect me to this important office six times and it has been an honor beyond measure. I hope North Dakotans will respect my work, my steadfast support of the US and State Constitutions, the rule of law, and efforts to keep North Dakota the best and safest place to live and work.

The end of my current term will mark 22 years as North Dakota's 29th Attorney General, the longest for an Attorney General in the state's history, in fact, as long as my three predecessors added together. In addition to that, of course, are the 24 years I spent as a member of the North Dakota House and Senate.

I ran for public office because of my love for North Dakota. And my love of our state has only grown during that time.

When you walk into the front of my office in the Capitol you will see a composite photograph of all the people who have served North Dakota as Attorney General since statehood. After my photo there are seven blank spaces. Those spots are reserved for the people who will come after me. I know that whoever is fortunate enough to have his or her photo included after mine will inherit a talented, dedicated group of employees who come to work everyday with the goal of keeping North Dakota the very best place.

My current term runs through the end of 2022, and we still have lots of time to continue the important work we have in the year ahead.

I wish you all the best of the Christmas Season, and look forward to continuing our important work in 2022!

Argument Session Starting February 22, 2022

Monday, Feb. 21 Federal Holiday

Tuesday, Feb. 22

10 am: Ysleta del sur Pueblo v. Texas, 20-493: Whether a federal law that bars on tribal lands any gaming activities “prohibited by the laws of the State of Texas” bans any kind of gambling prohibited under state law, or whether it goes further and also prohibits any gaming that the state regulates.

11 am: Denezpi v. Texas, 20-7622: Whether a prosecution in the Court of Indian Offenses can trigger the Constitution’s double jeopardy clause.

Wednesday, Feb. 23

10 am: Arizona v. City and County of San Francisco, 20-1775: Whether states should be permitted to intervene in litigation and defend a federal regulation when the federal government declines to do so.

Monday, Feb. 28

10 am: West Virginia v. EPA, 20-1530 (consolidated with three other cases: North American Coal Corp. v. EPA, 20-1531; Westmoreland Mining Holdings v. EPA, 20-1778; and North Dakota v. EPA, 20-1780): Whether the Clean Air Act authorizes the EPA to issue significant rules that regulate greenhouse gases from power plants. The cases came to the justices from the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia Circuit. That court vacated both the Trump administration’s decision to repeal the 2015 Clean Power Plan, which established guidelines for states to limit carbon dioxide emissions from power plants, and the Affordable Clean Energy Rule that the Trump administration issued in its place. The Biden administration urged the justices to stay out of the dispute, stressing that it intends to issue a new rule, but the court granted review in late October.

Tuesday, March 1

10 am: Ruan v. United States, 20-1410 (consolidated with Kahn v. United States, 21-5261): Whether a doctor who has the authority to prescribe controlled substances can be convicted for unlawful distribution of those drugs when he reasonably believed that his prescriptions fell within professional norms.

11 am: Marietta Memorial Hospital v. DaVita Inc., 20-1641: A dispute over the interpretation of the Medicare Secondary Payer Act, which bars health plans from considering whether an individual is eligible for Medicare benefits because they suffer from kidney failure and from providing different benefits to such individuals

10 am: Egbert v. Boule, 21-147: Whether the court's decision in Bivens v. Six Unknown Federal Narcotics Agents, allowing a private individual to sue a federal agent for violating his Fourth Amendment rights, extends to First Amendment retaliation claims and to Fourth Amendment claims involving immigration enforcement.

On December 6, the Court issued the following statement:

The Court will hear all oral arguments scheduled for the January and February sessions in the Courtroom. Courtroom access will be limited to the Justices, essential Court personnel, counsel in the scheduled cases, and journalists with full-time press credentials issued by the Supreme Court. Out of concern for the health and safety of the public and Supreme Court employees, the Courtroom sessions will not be open to the public. The Court will continue to closely monitor public health guidance in determining plans.

The Court will provide a live audio feed of the January and February oral arguments. A link to the live audio feed will be available on the homepage of the Court's website.

The Court building remains open for official business only and closed to the public until further notice.

Subject: RE: Comments on Hydrogen Hub

Wayne,

Thanks for sharing this.

Bakken Energy addressed all of these issues either in its response letter to the CCCA (attached) or in the hearing last week.

1. Bakken Energy proposes to use 175 million cubic feet of natural gas per day to produce hydrogen. How will the product be transported to market? Is Bakken proposing to construct an ammonia pipeline? Where would it go and what is the timeline/likelihood for permitting? If not a pipeline, how will that volume of product be transported?
 - a. Hydrogen - we stated during the CSEA hearing that we are in conversation with multiple long-haul trucking companies interested in taking our hydrogen "at the plant gate." This means we expect these long-haul trucking companies will build the hydrogen transportation system to us.
 - b. Ammonia – the distribution for ammonia already exists. We don't need to do anything to reach the ammonia markets other than rely on what is already being done.
2. Basin Electric said it has been losing money at the synfuels plant due to low natural gas prices. But prices have increased significantly in recent months. Is the plant once again profitable producing syngas from coal? If the plant is profitable in the next three years of operation, how does it affect the plan to produce hydrogen?
 - a. As Basin Electric stated during the hearing, they have made the decision to sell this plant to the Bakken Energy/Mitsubishi partnership in the next 15 months. They have suffered losses the last three years. Bakken Energy stated its modeling expects losses through 2026. If natural gas prices are high, perhaps some money will be made, but the variability in this market is not sustainable over the long term. In short, the plans to convert the plant to hydrogen will not change because of the natural gas markets.
3. Federal grant guidelines generally require local support for a project, but Bakken Energy has not met with the CCCA membership to answer their questions. Why hasn't that meeting occurred?
 - a. We told the CCCA when they called us to request a meeting that we have plans for an all employee meeting at DGC that we have not been able to execute on. We reiterated that in the attached letter. We will meet with 3rd party groups after we have met with the employees to lay out specific plans.
4. It appears this project is heavily dependent on federal grants and loans from DOE. Will the parties, Bakken Energy and Mitsubishi (which is a $5.2 trillion company), proceed with the project if it fails to receive federal support?
 - a. We stated during the CSEA hearing that while we are pursuing federal loan guarantees and grants, our project is NOT dependent on securing these funds.
5. If the project depends on federal support that may or may not be received, is it premature for the State of North Dakota to make a financial commitment at this time? Should the decision of the Industrial Commission be postponed until there is more certainty about project funding?
 - a. See our answer immediately above.

 CAUTION: This email originated from an outside source. Do not click links or open attachments unless you know they are safe.

Good morning Wayne –

Sorry this is a long email, but please read it in its entirety. The Coal Conversion Counties Association is a subset of the Western Dakota Energy Association. The CCCA represents cities, counties and school districts in the three coal-producing counties. Its members are concerned about the pending proposal of Bakken Energy and Mitsubishi to convert the Great Plains Synfuels plant to produce blue hydrogen from natural gas. Attached is a letter you previously received stating some of those concerns.

CCCA members suspect that because the project received the early endorsement of Governor Burgum, important questions have not been addressed and the project has not been thoroughly vetted. Earlier this week, the application of Bakken Energy for a grant and loan to support the project was endorsed by the Clean Sustainable Energy Authority, and will be coming before the Industrial Commission next week. After listening to the orchestrated presentation of Bakken Energy, and the ensuing discussion with the CSEA board, our coal county members still have many unanswered questions. Please consider these as you ponder a decision at next week's Industrial Commission meeting:

1. Bakken Energy proposes to use 175 million cubic feet of natural gas per day to produce hydrogen. How will the product be transported to market? Is Bakken proposing to construct an ammonia pipeline? Where would it go and what is the timeline/likelihood for permitting? If not a pipeline, how will that volume of product be transported?
2. Basin Electric said it has been losing money at the synfuels plant due to low natural gas prices. But prices have increased significantly in recent months. Is the plant once again profitable producing syngas from coal? If the plant is profitable in the next three years of operation, how does it affect the plan to produce hydrogen?
3. Federal grant guidelines generally require local support for a project, but Bakken Energy has not met with the CCCA membership to answer their questions. Why hasn't that meeting occurred?
4. It appears this project is heavily dependent on federal grants and loans from DOE. Will the parties, Bakken Energy and Mitsubishi (which is a $5.2 trillion company), proceed with the project if it fails to receive federal support?
5. If the project depends on federal support that may or may not be received, is it premature for the State of North Dakota to make a financial commitment at this time? Should the decision of the Industrial Commission be postponed until there is more certainty about project funding?

Thank you for your consideration.
